RELIGIOUS NOTICE.

ELD. JACOB CREATH, of Palmyra, will (the Lord willing) preach in the Christian Chapel in this City, on Saturday night and Sunday next.

The Courier and Messenger will please copy.
Hannibal, August 16, 1853. D. T. MORTON.

—E— A new apple tree enemy has made its appearance in Maine. It is a slender worm about half an inch in length, and striped with greenish white and dark stripes. When jarred they spin down and hang by a fine thread. They move about by rapid crawling. They eat leaves, buds and fruit indiscriminately. They are unlike the canker-worm, or any other known to the oldest inhabitants.

—E— Lola Montez celebrated her recent wedding by challenging a San Francisco editor to fight a duel.

—E— A well informed correspondent of the National Intelligencer says that a long war will be the only means of procuring communication with Japan.

—E— The State of Franklin.—It is not generally known that, in 1784, the western portion of South Carolina seceded from the eastern, forming a new State called Franklin. Dr. J.
G. M. Ramsey, who has recently published an interesting history of the State of Tennessee, has substantiated the fact. The State of Franklin maintained a separate existence for nearly four years. It afterwards with other territory, became the present State of Tennessee.

False Alarm.—The quiet of our peaceful city was this afternoon disturbed by yell and often repeated, as if a tribe of Cannibals Indians had invaded the place. Crowds of men and boys rushed down the streets and up the alley whence the sounds proceeded, in the full expectation of seeing bloody bowie knives and wounded combatants. They soon returned, however, upon discovering that all the fuss was about two men wrestling.

—E— One of our exchanges has a story of a train of cars being stopped by grasshoppers.
The rails were so thickly covered with them and the cars smashed them up so that it had the effect of grease on the rails, making the wheels revolve swiftly, while the train remained stationary.

—E— The New York Express learns that Mr.
W. E. Burton is preparing an illustrated edition of Shakespeare's works, which will cost at least $100,000! The illustrations, it is said, are to be superior to anything of the kind ever witnessed on this side of the Atlantic.

—E— The following startling dispatch reveals an appalling state of affairs in the afflicted city of New Orleans. A Christian people must be reduced to a woful extremity when they are compelled to burn their dead.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 18.

Private dispatches from New Orleans state that they are unable to bury all the dead bodies.
Last week one hundred and twenty-five dead bodies were burned.

We are in receipt of the "Ladies' Christian Annual," a very interesting monthly, published in Philadelphia: James Challen, editor. It is handsomely printed, contains 32 pages, and the subscription price is $1 a year.

The New York Tribune, in a biographical notice of Isaac T. Hopper, relates the following anecdote:

THE DISHONEST CONVERT.—Upon a certain occasion a man called on him with a due bill for twenty dollars against an estate he had been employed to settle. Friend Hopper put it away, saying he would examine it and attend to it as soon as he had leisure. The man called again a short time after, and stated that he had need of six dollars, and was willing to give a receipt for the whole if that sum were advanced.
This proposition excited suspicion, and the administrator decided in his own mind that he would pay nothing till he had examined the papers of the deceased. Searching carefully among these he found a receipt for the money, mentioning the identical items, date and circumstances of the transaction; stating that a due bill had been given and lost, and was to be restored by the creditor when found. When the man called again for payment, Isaac said to him, in a quiet way, "Friend Jones, I understand thou hast become pious, lately."

He replied in a solemn tone: "Yes, thanks to the Lord Jesus, I have found out the way of salvation."

"And thou hast been dipped, I hear," continued the Quaker. "Dost thou know James Aunter?"

Mr. Jones answered in the affirmative.
"Well, he also was dipped sometime ago," rejoined Friend Hopper; "but his neighbors say they didn't get the crown of his head under water. The devil crept into the unbaptized part, and has been busy with him ever since. I'm afraid they didn't get thee quite under water. I think thou hadst better be dipped again."

As he spoke, he held up the receipt for twenty dollars. The countenance of the professedly pious man became scarlet, and he disappeared instantly.

ANOTHER ROBINSON CRUSOE.

Capt. Wm. Gibson, of the schooner Flirt, has just returned to New York after a long and unjust imprisonment in the Dutch East Indies.
The "Tribune" has a long account of his adventures, which have been quite romantic. That paper calls upon the Administration to demand redress from the Dutch Government. The following is an extract from the Tribune's narrative:

Capt. Gibson, being of rather an adventurous turn, owning his vessel, and not being pressed for time, resolved to visit the little Island of Tristia d'Acunha. This island is situated in about 45 deg. south latitude, and about midway between the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn. In the year 1811 the British frigate Pandora struck on a ledge of rocks near this island, on her return home from Bengal, laden with troops. One of their number, Sergeant Glass, while the troops were being landed, preparatory to getting the ship off the rocks, took advantage of the confusion attendant thereon, and secreted himself on the island, and the ship sailed without him. Glass remained here three years, subsisting in the meantime on the flesh of seals, which here abound, and also on shellfish and roots. By the expiration of this time he had succeeded in constructing a boat from drift timber, and other materials, and proceeded with a cargo of goat skins to the Cape of Good Hope, some 1,600 miles distant. The time which he selected for his departure in this frail craft, was during the prevalence of the westerly winds. He accomplished his perilous voyage in safety. After a short residence at Cape Town, he married the widow of a soldier who had died at the Cape; and with his wife and a negro man, returned to his solitary Island again, taking with him various implements, seeds, arms and ammunition, together with other necessities, which were liberally furnished him by the merchants of Cape Town. Here the good couple carried out the injunction, "increase and multiply." The result of their marriage was seven daughters, who, in the course of time, were married to men from American whalers, who occasionally touched at the Island. These sens-in-law of the old man, in compliance with a law that he had made, that "no son-in-law of his should leave the Island," settled down, and proved as prolific as did the original couple, so that the population now amounts to eighty-four children, grand-children and great-grand-children. Since the Island has first been settled by Glass, death has never visited one of its inhabitants.

A PALPABLE PARODY.

"Tis the last Rose of Summer."—MOORE.

'Tis the last golden dollar, Left shining alone;
All its brilliant companions Are squandered and gone.
No coin of its mintage Reflects back its hue;
They went off in mint juleps,
And this will go too!

I'll keep thee, thou lone one,
Not long in suspense,
Thy brethren were melted,
And melt thou to pence!
I ask for no quarter, I'll spend and not spare,
'Till my old tattered pocket, Lies centless and bare.

So soon may I follow,
When friendships decay;
And from beggary's last dollar,
The dimes drop away!
When the Maine law is passed And the groggeries sink, What use would be dollars,
With nothing to drink?

[Selected for the Journal.]
TO AN ABSENT ONE.

"When evening spreads her dewy veil, And lights her star's resplendent ray—Ah, then my sinking spirits fail!
For then I sigh for one away.

"Though cheered by friendship's tender smile, And circled by the blithe and gay—Their mirth no longer can beguile, The heart which throbs for one away.

"The tedious hours protracted tell; I listless sing—more listless play;
But memory scornful all control, Incessant flies to one away.

"And like the statue, still and cold—That only to the sun's warm ray, Its harmonies would yield my soul—Feels dead to all but one away.

"Thou dearest one, ah! soon return; I cannot, dare not, bid thee stay—
The lamp of life must cease to burn, If thus deprived of one away."

CORONER'S INQUEST.—The body of Mrs.
Auman, whose death and the arrest of her husband, we noticed yesterday, was disinterred on Wednesday and an inquest held by the Coroner and a jury. After a post mortem examination by Dr. Everett and hearing evidence, the jury returned the following verdict:— [Quincy Whig.]

Having been summoned by the Coroner of Adams county to hold an inquest upon the body of Dorothy Auman, after due examination we find that the said Dorothy Auman came to her death by a disease occasioned by maltreatment and violence inflicted upon her person by her husband, Christian Auman.

scholarship, and held a first standing in his class. He is considered as well qualified to instruct in any department of education; but is distinguished for skill in Languages, and would,

From Judge VAN SWERINGEN AND OTHERS.—"I concur fully with the sentiments in the certificate of President Pierce, of the qualifications of Rev. D. Emerson to instruct in by few within my knowledge for efficiency and government."

Important to Housekeepers!!

WOODMAN'S

CELEBRATED SOAP!!

THE above celebrated soap is an article which every family, hotel, laundry, boarding house, &c., will find upon a careful trial, to be the very thing required for economy and saving of labor:

1st. Because clothes can be washed in one-fourth the time.
2d. They require no rubbing or pounding, thereby saving labor, and the injurious effects of the old method.

3d. It bleaches and leaves them purely white, and for colored cloths it is unsurpassed, as it does not extract the dye, but has a tendency to set the color. For washing paint and windows it cannot be excelled.

It is warranted not to injure the clothes in any way.
It is put up in boxes of ten pounds each. Full directions on each box for the use of it.

The Soap can be had at the house of John Davis, who is sole agent for Marion county, on Fifth street, near Wm.
Green's Hemp Press, or of Curtis & Lockwood, on Main, near Hill street. (aug14d)
